Skip to content Established in 1837 by Thierry Hermès as a harness shop, Hermès was born to fit the needs of the equestrian world. It was from these roots in making saddles, bridles and other leather horse riding gear that Hermès honed its incredible craftsmanship. Over time, Hermès widened its selection of products, expanding into leather bags "Haut à Courroies" for saddles in 1900 and then accessories and clothing in the 1920's. The fashion house of Hermès has designed many iconic pieces, most of which come with a great history. When buying a vintage Hermès bag, you can easily find out how old it is using the date stamp. The brand that is known for being one of the most secretive of luxury houses is actually the most transparent when it comes to the production of its products. Every Hermès piece is handmade and therefore has its own intricacies based on the craftsman and leather. Each Hermès handbag has the Hermès logo embossed in gold or silver print to match the corresponding hardware, or with no color at all, and the text is centered. While this is one of the many ways to spot an inauthentic Hermès handbag, the date code (also known as a date stamp) is a big tool in identifying the year of manufacture and ensuring the bag is real. Hermès date codes are contained in what they refer to as "blind stamps." The blind stamp is a code indicating the date of manufacture and can be used in authenticating a bag, as many people do when considering purchasing a used or vintage designer purse, although it is not in and of itself a guarantee of authenticity. Hermès uses letters in alphabetical order to date the bags, often surrounded by a shape. From 1945 to 1970, no shapes were used. From 1971 to 1996, a circle shape was used. From 1997 to 2014, a square shape was used. Most recently (2019), no shape was used. If there are additional numbers or letters next to the blind stamp, these indicate the section of the atelier in which the bag maker works. Use the chart below to help you decipher when your Hermès handbag was manufactured. You can find the stamp on the outer arm on Kelly or Birkin bags, or sometimes, on an interior panel as found on the Constance. Start by looking at the shape contained in the date code, and follow the column to find the manufacture date based on the letter shown inside of the shape. Ever find yourself wondering what the horseshoe on a Birkin Bag means? Confused as to the square symbol on your Hermès Kelly Bag? Keep reading to learn how to decipher the Hermès code! The square (□): This symbol is used to identify an item as being made using Alligator Mississippiensis. The carat (^): This pointed symbol is added to an item when Crocodile Porosus is used. The Double Dots (..): The shortened ellipsis symbolizes when an item is made using Crocodile Niloticus. The Dash (-): This unassuming dash symbolizes when Varanus Niloticus Lizard is used. The Equal Sign (=): The equal sign is used to represent when Varanus Salvator Lizard has been used to create a particular item. The Horseshoe: Displayed on each custom Hermès product, a horseshoe will be stamped as a marker. The Shooting Star: Not as common, this stamp refers to a product that was created for a Hermès Craftsman's personal use. The Employee Stamp: While it does vary, there will usually be a debossed S to indicate an item that has been purchased at a discounted employee rate. In some cases, there are additional numbers and/or letters included. Read more about Hermès authenticity or head on over to shop our Hermès Collection. Love that Bag is not affiliated with the above-mentioned brands. We guarantee these to be authentic items. Why check a date stamp? Purchasing a genuine Hermès bag is a process which can be difficult - there are a lot of inauthentic bags out there, and the people making those bags are always looking at ways to deceive prospective buyers. Hermès is unusual in that they do not issue certificates of authentication, unlike other leading brands like Chanel. The Hermès use of date stamps is one way to help ensure that the bag you buy is genuine - it should not be used as the only method, but an understanding of how the date stamp works will help you. It is always advisable to use an experienced and trusted reseller of Hermès handbags - Lilac Blue London has years of experience in identifying genuine bags and is always happy to help. What is the date stamp and where is it found? Each bag is marked with a date or blind stamp which are codes embedded in the leather indicating both the year of manufacture and the identity of the artisan who created the bag. Between 1945 and 1971 it was just the letter on its own but from 1971 to 2014 the letters were enclosed either in a circle or a square. These stamps were always located on the back of the closure strap but they can now be found close to the back flap, on the left side. Stamps denoting exotic leathers In addition to the date stamp, there are additional symbols to indicate different leathers, for example alligator is an empty square, porosus crocodile is ^, niloticus crocodile is ••, and lizard is -. If you are buying a Special Order bag this will be shown by a Horseshoe stamp next to the Hermès logo on the inside - hence the description HSS on some Special Order bags.
